

Gravity

Deep in sleep you fall into a spiral of dark
You are falling but you are not.

Have your ever felt that?
Woken up startled, and peering over the edge of the bed making sure you are not, in fact,
falling falling falling

Falling feels like flying until the moment that you land.
Off the edge of the bed.
On the decent of a rollercoaster.
Then a jolt as you are pushed back by the shear velocity of the ride.

